PRELIMINARY RECITALS

Pursuant to a petition filed December 03, 2012, under Wis. Admin. Code § HA 3.03, to review a decision by the Milwaukee Early Care Administration - MECA in regard to Child Care, a hearing was held on February 12, 2013, at Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

The issue for determination is whether the agency correctly seeks to recover an overissuance of child care benefits from Petitioner.

There appeared at that time and place the following persons:

FINDINGS OF FACT

1. Petitioner (CARES # [REDACTED]) is a resident of Milwaukee County.

2. The agency sent Petitioner a notice dated November 23, 2012 that informed Petitioner that she had been overissued child care benefits in the amount of $2460.49 for the time period from June 17, 2012 to July 31, 2012. Claim # [REDACTED].
3. Petitioner was employed and approved for child care. She lost that employment as of June 14, 2012. She correctly reported the loss of the employment as required to the agency. She continued to use child care for the remainder of June 2012 and in July 2012.
4. The amount paid for child care by the Wisconsin Shares Child Care Program during the period at issue here is not disputed.

DISCUSSION

The Wisconsin Statutes, at §49.195(3), state the following:

A county, tribal governing body, Wisconsin works agency or the department shall determine whether an overpayment has been made under s. 49.19, 49.148, 49.155 or 49.157 and, if so, the amount of the overpayment.... Notwithstanding s. 49.96, the department shall promptly recover all overpayments made under s. 49.19, 49.148, 49.155 or 49.157 that have not already been received under s. 49.161 or 49.19(17) and shall promulgate rules establishing policies and procedures to administer this subsection.

Child care subsidies are authorized in the Wisconsin Statutes, at §49.155; thus they are within the purview of §49.195(3). Recovery of child care overpayments also is mandated by the Wisconsin Administrative Code. Wis. Admin. Code, § DCF 101.23. An overpayment is any payment received in an amount greater than the amount that the assistance group was eligible to receive, regardless of the reason for the overpayment or whose error caused the overpayment. Wis. Admin. Code, § DCF 101.23(1) (g). Adm. Code. Clearly, then, all overpayments, regardless of whose error caused the overpayment, are to be recovered. Also see, Wisconsin Shares Child Care Assistance Manual (Manual), §2.3.1.

Generally speaking, to successfully establish an overpayment claim, the county agency needs to present: a copy of a notice and overpayment computations that was sent to the recipient; primary documentation proving the misstatement, omission, or failure occurred and caused child care to be granted for which the client was not otherwise eligible; documentation of the benefits actually paid; and Case Comments corroborating the facts and timeline of the original reporting, subsequent discovery, client contacts, referral, and determination. The agency must establish by the “preponderance of the evidence” in the record that it correctly determined the client was overpaid. This legal standard of review means, simply, that “it is more likely than not” that the overpayment occurred. It is the lowest legal standard in use in courts or tribunals.

The recipient may then offer any documents or testimony that rebuts any part of the agency claim. The agency, likewise, may then choose to submit other documents or testimony to address and attempt to rebut the defenses raised by the recipient.

Finally, relevant here, is the provision that a parent be in an approved activity in order to receive child care benefits. Manual, §1.4.8. Approved activities are listed in §1.5.0 of the Manual. Relevant here, child care is available for employment search but it must be part of a Wisconsin Works (W-2) or FoodShare Employment and Training Program (FSET) activity. Manual, §§1.5.4 and 1.5.5.

Here there is no argument as to amount. Rather, Petitioner notes that she reported the loss of employment as required (see Manual, §§1.15.1-.2) and that she only used child care for the time when she was looking for new employment and that she was never told that she could not use the child care for that purpose.

Essentially, Petitioner is asserting an equitable estoppel argument, she reported a loss of employment but was still authorized for child care and because no one told her that she could no longer use it she is now faced with an overpayment; effectively she was misled her to her detriment and she asks that the Division of Hearings and Appeals issue an order that allows the use of the child care. The Division of Hearings and Appeals does not, however, possess equitable powers. See, e.g., Wisconsin Socialist Workers 1976 Campaign Committee v. McCann, 433 F.Supp. 540, 545 (E.D. Wis.1977). The Division of Hearings and Appeals must limit its review to the law as set forth in statutes, federal regulations, and administrative code provisions. Accordingly, the Division of Hearings and Appeals does not have authority under law to perform "equity" in the manner sought.

Ultimately, program regulation requires that all overpayments be recovered regardless of fault. Here Petitioner did report a change in circumstances is required. Nonetheless, she continued to use child care. It was not under the auspices of the W-2 or FSET programs. The Division of Hearings and Appeals does not have authority to create new categories of approved activities. I must, therefore, conclude that the agency may proceed to collect this over issuance.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

That Petitioner was overpaid child care benefits in the amount of $2460.49 for the period from June 17, 2012 to July 31, 2012 as she was not in an approved activity as that term is used by the Wisconsin Shares Child Care program and the agency is obligated to recover the overpayment.

THEREFORE, it is

ORDERED

That this appeal is dismissed.
